NUKUHIA TE MAUNGA

Moving the Mountain

Wayne Craig – Director, Curiosity and Powerful Learning

Wayne's time with us will explore instructional, adaptive and system leadership, reflective development and strategic acumen. He'll work with us in gaining clarity around the drivers of student learning, including the purpose of schools. Student learning is at the centre of his approach – with curiosity and engagement underpinning the application of intellectual curiosity to convert information to knowledge. With us he'll explore the change/no change cycle, tapping into intrinsic motivation, the importance of narrative, and evidence-based practice. Wayne will be with us for both days and is looking forward to sharing his considerable knowledge and experience with us.

Martin Byrne

Over the past 14 years, Martin has led Port Nelson through some difficult time and developed a unique culture at the port. Current CEO of Port Nelson, Martin Byrne shares his story.

Greg Tucker - Education Review Office

ERO will give an overview of what effective leadership looks like and what characteristics ERO is seeing in school leaders who strive to provide equitable opportunities for all child to learn from a rich curriculum.

We will also give an update on ERO direction and future priorities, including what we look for since the removal of National Standards.

Jake Bailey

In 2015 Jake Bailey was diagnosed with stage 4 Burkitt's Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma. Now in remission, his journey is teaching us all – how to live!

Hon. Chris Hipkins - Minister of Education

Chris passionately believes that every New Zealander deserves the opportunity to reach their full potential in life. He is a staunch advocate for and defender of our public education system. Chris believes that a free, quality education is the right of every child.
